

PAYING MORE FOR COAL POWER:

What we could do with the additional cost

Two new proposed coal power plants, Thabametsi and Khanyisa, are expected to cost South Africans more than cheaper, cleaner electricity generation options. Here's what we could do with that money:

R19.68 Billion

4 million additional child support grants

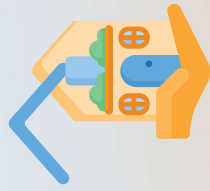

Safe schools with access to electricity and no dangerous pit latrines.

A 3 year course for 187,430 students

R19,68 BILLION =

164,000 new homes

4 times the Department of Health's infrastructure budget

Antiretroviral treatment for 4.5 million South Africans
